

Learn the basics of IEC 62366-1 with working examples, team exercises and our industry knowledge and experience. This course includes practical examples of usability scenarios using guidance documents.

Duration: Half day

Language: English or German

Course Content

- › Overview of the usability processes
- › Risk management relating to usability
- › Planning & inputs (including FDA guidance)
- › Selection of user groups
- › Usability process (hazard-related use scenarios, risk control, formative and summative analysis)
- › Requirements of the User Interface and other specifications
- › User Interface of unknown provenance
- › Risk benefit analysis
- › Post-production activities

Who Should Attend?

Human Factors Specialists, Product Design Engineers, Project Managers, Regulatory Managers, Risk Management staff, Quality Assurance Managers

Prerequisites

This course is suitable for delegates with no prior knowledge of IEC 62366-1 or can be customised for a more experienced audience.

Training Schedule

Half day training sessions typically run for 4 hours, including a short break. This can be adapted as required to meet specific business requirements.

Price: £275 per person for a minimum of 2 and up to 7 participants. Thereafter a fixed rate will be charged for the training session.

To Book:

For a convenient and cost effective training solution, we can work with your organisation to develop bespoke training to meet your exact requirements.

To book this course or discuss customised training, please email us at info@lorit-consultancy.com or call us on +44 7708 360023.

www.lorit-consultancy.com